

Nominate / Change your dependants

It is important to update your dependants should your personal circumstances change due to events like marriage, divorce or childbirth. You dependants are your spouse, your children and can also include anyone financially dependent on you. Where there are no identifiable legal dependants the benefit will usually be paid to your estate. The payment of the death benefit is at the trustee's discretion, although the trustee will take your wishes into account when deciding who will receive your benefit. For this reason it is important to keep an up-to-date Will.
